

Money in Politics

Following the money trail in 2008 elections

December 8-9, 2007 • Seattle
Host: Seattle Post-Intelligencer

At this one day workshop, learn how to follow the money and its influence after the election. The workshop will emphasize money in local and state elections on the horizon, including the impact of 527 organizations at those levels. This workshop is limited to the first 100 people who register.

Optional Computer-Assisted Reporting Training will be offered the second half-day. This hands-on, computer-assisted reporting class will build data analysis skills for reporters covering money in politics. The class will use federal and state-level data, including "527" data from the IRS. Instructors will emphasize story ideas generated by the analysis. There are only 12 spaces for CAR training, available on a first-come, first-served basis.
